

JUST THEN TWO 'COPS' APPEARED

Roy Innes, Colored, Was Coaxing the Dice Very Hard to Keep That
Seven Away When—

ONE ROLLED OFF ON THE FLOOR

The Interested Crowd Looked up and
There Stood Two Policemen—
$5 and Costs For Two Players.

Roy Innes and Charles, Burnett, colored, were fined five dollars and costs by Mayor Bebout Saturday night when they pleaded guilty to gaming. They were found with Milard Waverly, colored, James Beeraft and Cleatus Lloyd shooting craps in the L. B. Harris stable in South Julian street. The two made arrangement to pay the fines, amounting to $15 each, in weekly installments.

"Stay way seven," "get the quarter then we will shoot the half," were the sounds that greeted Chief Rosencrance and policeman Hunt Saturday afternoon about five o'clock when they were walking near the barn. Chief Rosencrance opened the door and watched the game for a few seconds. Innes was trying to make a pass for "two-bits" and Burnett had him faded.

Innes was coaxing the dice very hard to come for him when one rolled on the floor. The police yelled "cock dice" and the game ended. Chief Rosencrance reached over on the table and picked up the two quarters and the dice. All the men were taken to jail and were given a hearing that night before the mayor.

According to the testimony, Burnett and Innes were the only ones that were shooting craps. The other men stated that they were simply watching the game. They stated that the game had been in progress only a short time when the police arrived. The men have living apartments at the stable and the officers did not believe they could make a case against the other three men on the charge of visiting a gambling room.

Innes and Burnett were caught dead to rights and as Innes expressed it "there was nothing to do but plead guilty." Under the law the five dollar fine is the minimum and they were warned against any future appearance before Mayor Bebout on a similar charge. The arrest of the five men was not without its funny side. Burnett is from near Jeffersonville, and while he is at home he acts as a preacher to a small congregation near there.

While in jail Burnett told Mr. Harris that he hoped the folks down home did not hear of this as there would "be the devil to pay."

NOT MANY THERE.

The meeting of those who signed the Patterson "Catch-my pal" pledges scheduled for yesterday afternoon at the court house failed to materialize. Only a few were present and nothing was done toward an organization. It is planned to hold a meeting at a future date when an organization will more than likely be perfected.

COMMISSIONERS MEET.

The county commissioners held their first regular session of the month today. Nothing of importance was done and most of the day was put in allowing claims. The commissioners will meet again tomorrow and it is likely that several roads will come up for discussion.

S. A. Alger is critically ill with heart trouble at his home in West Third street.

TO ELECT NEW OFFICERS

Annual Meeting of Gun and Country Club Tomorrow Night.

The annual meeting of the Rushville Gun and Country Club will be held in Hargrove & Mullin's drug store tomorrow evening at seven-thirty o'clock. About the only business to be transacted will be the election of new officers for the year. Dr. P. H. Chadwick is president and Wilbur Stiers treasurer. Will C. McColgin, deceased was the secretary, but no successor was ever elected.

CREDITORS HERE WILL COMPROMISE

All Sign Agreement Calling For Settlement With A. P. Walker For 70 Cents on The Dollar.

CIRCULATED IN INDIANAPOLIS

It was stated today that all the creditors of A. P. Walker in this city had signed the agreement whereby they were to receive seventy cents on the dollar in payment on their accounts against Walker. The paper was circulated here last week and it is understood that all the creditors signed. To put the agreement through, it will be necessary for every creditor to sign. It looks now as though the compromise would be reached.

Attorneys were to circulate the paper in Indianapolis today and secure the signature of the creditors there. Some of the Indianapolis creditors have already signed and it is hoped to get the remainder. Talk of a compromise has been heard for some time and it is believed that it will be decided definitely in a few days.

STOLE $ 31 FROM GEORGE ANDERSON

Thieves Entered His Home Saturday
Night While He Was Awake and Took His Trousers.

FOUND THEM BUT MONEY GONE

George Anderson, an aged and decrepit negro of this city, who attempts to do some draying business, was robbed of $31 Saturday night, according to the story which he told today. He said that he had retired early in his little hut in East Eighth street, but had not turned out the lamp in the room. He declared that he had not gone to sleep, although he had been in bed for some time, when some one entered the room, put out the light and pulled his trousers off the bed. George made no effort to give chase as he can scarcely walk.

The trousers were found in front of his house, but the $31, which he declares he had in one of his pockets, was missing. The robbery was not reported to the police.

APPOINTMENTS DELAYED.

(By United Press.)

South Bend, Ind., April 6.—Appointments of ministers in the North Indiana M. E. conference will not be made until late tonight. This is due to a large number of applications for moves. Resolutions were to be reported late this afternoon.

ATTENDANCE GOAL REACHED

Thousand and Thirty-one Persons
Present at "Kentucky Day" at Christian Bible School.

CONTEST IS REFERRED TO

Former Rushville Minister Recommends Addition to Church to Care For the Large Crowd.

In the celebration of "Kentucky Day" at the Main Street Christian Bible school yesterday, the goal for attendance was reached—with thirty-one to spare. The mark was set at a thousand and the total number of persons present in the classes was 1,031. The secretary announced 1,001, which was considered a very close margin, but later it was announced a mistake in addition had been made, and the attendance was 31 greater. The Loyal Women's class had 201 present, the largest class, and the Men's Century Bible class had the largest collection, $18.44.

R. C. Prewitt, superintendent of the Bible school at Winchester, Ky., and D. L. Pendleton, teacher of the men's class, both addressed the Bible school in a happy vein. They referred frequently, both humorously and with fine sentiment, to the recent contest in which they were defeated. Mr. Pendleton told how the bond of friendship between the two schools had been strengthened by the contest. Mrs. Bertha Green sang "My Old Kentucky Home" and a quartet also sang.

The Rev. J. H. MacNeill, pastor of the Winchester church and formerly pastor of the church here, preached at both services and was greeted by many old friends.

In the night sermon, the Rev. Mr. MacNeill turned his attention somewhat to local affairs. From his observations during his stay of a few days here, he said he had noted just three things the church ought to do. In the first place, he declared, the congregation should manage to keep the Rev. C. M. Yocum here as pastor and retain Hugh Mauzy as superintendent of the Bible school. He paid many fine compliments to these two men.

In the third place, he continued, the church should erect a Sunday school plant on the lot west of the church. He recalled that this was a very wealthy congregation and that it should arrange to take the proper care of the large Sunday school attendance. He suggested that there should be at least a three-story building adjoining the church edifice, graded according to the most approved methods.

Plans for increasing the size of the church have been under consideration for some time. It has been suggested previously that an addition be erected at the southwest corner of the church so that the space now utilized by the hitch rack not be taken up. Apparently, however, this has been postponed for the present because a committee is now having prepared plans for improvement of the basement, which would increase the capacity of the building.

But the Rev. Mr. MacNeill pointed out last night that this improvement would not accommodate the Bible school and that it would not offer the opportunities to grade the classes as should be done.

The former pastor said there was no reason why the improvement he suggested could not be put through. In support of his contention, he called attention to the fact that since he had been in Winchester, his congregation had built a church plant at

WILL BE ASKED TO JOIN STATE BODY

Rushville Chamber of Commerce Will
Have Opportunity to Affiliate
With Indiana Organization.

WILL BE FORMED IN OCTOBER

More Committee Meetings Scheduled
to Take Place Today—Others
Will be Announced Soon.

Indications are that an Indiana Chamber of Commerce will be formed next October to take the place of the Indiana Federated Commercial Clubs, and since Rushville has only recently formed a Chamber of Commerce, it will be invited to join in the new organization.

In addition to Rushville, Chambers of Commerce have been formed only recently in Kokomo, Anderson, Lafayette, Laporte and Noblesville. In all probability more will be organized. It is expected, according to officials of the Indianapolis Chamber of Commerce who are at the head of the movement, that every Chamber of Commerce in Indiana will come into the new organization that will be formed along lines followed in other states.

The Chamber of Commerce here is starting out like a winner and the officers are very enthusiastic about the progress which is being made. L. B. Smelser, the secretary, is spending many hours a day at the job and is devoting all his spare moments to getting the Chamber in working order. Most of his duties now consist of starting the committees to work.

Two committees have already met and the greatest enthusiasm has prevailed at the sessions. Two more of the committees were to meet today and other meetings will be arranged for the other committees just as fast as possible.

The auditorium committee was to meet at Chamber of Commerce headquarters this afternoon at four-thirty o'clock and something definite was expected to result from the session. The need of an auditorium has been felt here for some time and it would not be at all improbable if the committee did hit upon some suggestions to bring about this improvement at some future date.

The manufactures committee is to meet at the headquarters this evening at seven-thirty o'clock. It is probable that there will be some announcements to make in regard to the meetings tomorrow.

The state Chamber of Commerce will be organized at the annual meeting of the federated clubs in October. It is planned to make the meeting a big event. Edward F. Trefz of Washington, D. C., field secretary of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, will be one of the speakers and George I. Christie of Purdue University will be another. There also will be speakers on good roads, fire prevention and an advocate of the 1-cent letter postage movement.

NINE MEN DEAD.

Memphis, Tenn., April 6.—Caught in the murky ducts of a carillon, nine men employed in laying the foundation of the bridge across the Mississippi river were smothered to death today. The death house was finally broken open and the lifeless forms lifted out.

EASTERN STAR MEETING.

Martha Poe Chapter No. 143 O. E. S. will hold their regular meeting Tuesday night. A good attendance is desired.

FUNERAL WILL BE TUESDAY

Mrs. Lafayette Cox Dies Near New
Salem of Tuberculosis.

The funeral services of Mrs. Jane Cox, wife of Lafayette Cox, who died Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at her home east of New Salem will be held Tuesday morning at eleven o'clock in the U. B. church in Andersonville and burial will take place in the Hopewell cemetery. Mrs. Cox had been ill for a long time suffering from tuberculosis and death was expected. She was thirty-five years old. Mrs. Cox is survived by her husband and eight children, six sons and two daughters.

LEGISLATION ON FLOOD POSTPONED

This and Drainage and Water Power
Problems Will be Features of Democratic Legislation.

ANNOUNCEMENT MADE TODAY

(By United Press.)

Washington, April 6.—Flood prevention, drainage and water power problems are to be the "star" features of Democratic legislation in congress next winter, it was learned today.

President Edmund Perkins of the National Drainage Congress was authority today for the statement that President Wilson, Speaker Clark and other Democratic leaders in congress have agreed to postpone all such legislation until the next session. Irrigation developments on a more business-like and comprehensive plan, annual rivers and harbor appropriations and other associated questions are to be solved.

Speaker Clark has a bill before congress as a substitute for the Newlands measure providing for the incorporation of states in methods of flood prevention and reclamation of flooded land.

CHIEF CARRIES BLACK EYE

Stops Piece of Statuary Thrown by
His Wife.

Chief of Police Rosencrance is carrying a "nifty" looking black eye as the result of a "heave" by Mrs. Rosencrance. During a jealous fit of anger last night, Mrs. Rosencrance threw a small piece of statuary at the chief. He failed to dodge in time and it landed on his left eye. The eye is badly blackened and is swollen considerably. Mrs. Rosencrance is very jealous of her husband and more so since he has been chief of police. The domestic trouble culminated last night.

MAKES FINAL PLEA.

Chicago, April 6.—Through a drizzling rain Miss Marion H. Drake and her squad of girl workers today tramped the gloomy allies and streets of the tenement district of the first ward making final personal pleas for the votes of wives and mothers in tomorrow's aldermanic election when Miss Drake opposes "Bath House" John Coughlin. They climbed narrow stairways to talk to women bending over Monday's washing and talked to girls in laundries.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Dickman and family are moving into one of the Giffin houses in Morgan street between Sixth and Seventh streets.

DR. REA DIES AT FALMOUTH

Well Known Physician, Who Had
Been Ill More Than Two Years
Answers Death Summons.

PRACTICED HERE 23 YEARS

Born and Reared in Newcastle, he
Came to Rush County Soon
After Taking up Profession.

Dr. Charles L. Rea, 55 years old, a well known physician of Falmouth, died at his home there Sunday morning at 2:30 o'clock. Dr. Rea had been in ill health for a long time and death was due to a complication of diseases. Two years ago he underwent an operation at the sanatorium here and while it prolonged his life for a time, he never completely recovered.

An autopsy was held yesterday, and it was found that he had suffered from an ulcerated liver and other complications. He had been in a serious condition for the past four weeks and death was expected.

Dr. Rea was well known in this county and more so in and around Falmouth, where he had been practicing medicine for the past twenty-three years. He was the son of the late John Rea of Newcastle and was born in that city. He followed his father in the practice of medicine and graduated from the Ohio Medical College at Cincinnati. Following his graduation he practiced for a time with his father and then located in Rogersville, Henry county. He did not remain there long and moved to Falmouth where he had since practiced. He was well and favorably known to the profession and his loss will be greatly felt.

He is survived by his widow and one child, whom they reared, but never adopted. Dr. Rea also is survived by two sisters. They are Mrs. Elizabeth Gillies and Miss Frances Rea, both of Newcastle. Dr. Rea was one of a family of ten children and his two sisters are all that remain.

The funeral services will be conducted tomorrow morning at ten o'clock at the late residence in Falmouth and burial will take place in the Raleigh cemetery.

WANT OPTION ELECTION.

(Special to the Daily Republican)
Greenfield, Ind., April 6.—A petition bearing the signature of 378 voters were presented to the county commissioners here today asking that a local option election be called in Greenfield. The petition contained 152 more names than the necessary number of signatures.

The Town Market

The modern successor to the old Town Market are the advertising columns of the daily newspaper.

They are as much an improvement on the old system as the news columns are an advance over the Town-Crier.

Wise people nowadays consult the advertising in their newspaper before they purchase. It saves time and money.

It is economy and convenience in the best sense of the word.

Advertising has become a fixed factor in the science of domestic economy.

A MEDICINE OF MERIT

A proprietary medicine, like everything else that comes before the public, has to prove its merits. The law of the survival of the fittest applies in this field as in others. The reason for the tremendous success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is because it has been fulfilling a real human need for forty years, so that today thousands of American women owe their health and happiness to the marvelous power of this famous medicine, made from roots and herbs—nature's remedy for woman's ills.

MAY AFFECT THE MAIL SERVICE SOME

If Rumored L. E. & W. Time Change is Made, Local Connection Will be Hindered.

MAIL TWO DAYS LATE AT MAYS

It is rumored that a change of time is soon to be effective on the local division of the L. E. & W. The agent here has heard of the rumors but has received no official notice. He believes that the change will be made however. The dope is that the Rushville limited will leave Newcastle at nine o'clock in the morning instead of 7:10 o'clock as at present. This means that the train for Newcastle instead of leaving here at 10 o'clock will leave about noon. The change in time will affect the mail service at Spiceland and Mays. If the rural route carriers are not held until the arrival of the train from Newcastle, patrons of the rural routes receiving papers from this city will not get them until two days after they were printed.

There is still talk in Newcastle of the Pennsylvania taking over the track rights of this branch of the Lake Erie in order to get a direct route from Muncie to Louisville.

TRADE BALANCE IS WITH THIS COUNTRY

For Period of Eight Months Ending With February, 1914 Exports Exceed Imports by $479,000,000.

MONTH AMOUNTS TO $26,000,000

(Special to the Daily Republican)
Washington, April 6.—Detailed figures of the imports into and exports from the United States for February and the eight months ended with February, 1914, published today by the Department of Commerce, show imports in February approximating $148,000,000, and exports $174,900,000, a total trade of $322,900,000. In the eight months' period ending with February, 1914, imports were a little below $1,216,000,000 and exports were something more than $1,695,000,000, and aggregate trade of $2,911,000,000. The trade balance favoring the United States is about $26,000,000 for the month of February, 1914, and for the eight months ended February, 1914, exceeds $479,000,000.

Looking at the figures by great groups the imports in February of the three classes of manufacturers were of "Foodstuffs partly or wholly manufactured" a little over $15,000,000, of "Manufactures for further use in manufacturing" something over $22,400,000, and of "Manufactures ready for consumption" more than $35,500,000, a total exceeding $73,500,000. Exports in the same classes were $22,100,000, $28,400,000, and $51,700,000, respectively, an aggregate of over $102,200,000. Each class of manufactures shows a substantial trade balance in favor of the United States. The imports of the three classes of manufactures for the eight months ended with February, 1914, exceeded $646,000,000 and the total exports surpassed $939,000,000 showing a balance of trade in favor of the United States approximating $293,000,000.

"THE CALL OF THE TRAUMEREI."

BETTY BROWN.

THOSE fond of music find "The Call of the Traumeri" (American) an interesting moving picture love story, with an artistic atmosphere that is interesting.

One of the vivacious players on the Essanay staff of moving picture producers is Miss Betty Brown, who often appears on Essanay films. Do you remember seeing her?

The shipwreck scene in "A Million Bids," which is now being presented at the Vitagraph theater, New York city, has made such an impression that the Vitagraph Company of America has purchased a manuscript calling for the actual wrecking of a large steamship. The steamship will be completely wrecked, for, after going on the rocks, it will be blown up with dynamite to depict the explosion of the boilers.

George W. Terwilliger and a company of Lubin players have gone to St. Augustine, Fla., to make several photo plays. "The Man From the Sea," by Paul Dickey and Charles Goddard, will be made a feature.

"The Great Mine Disaster" (Electric, four reels) is a splendid drama, photographed probably in England. The cast is strong and very capable. The settings are most accurate, some of them taken right inside a mine.

Rehearsals of the interior scenes of the play in which William Faversham has just contracted to appear for the Playgoers' Film company, will begin shortly in the studio at Yonkers, N. Y. The name of the production has not yet been announced. It will probably be one of the successes which has made the actor known from coast to coast during the past few years.

Director Barry O'Neil and a company including Lillie Leslie, Ruth Bryan, Clara Lambert, George S. Spencer, Fred Tidmarsh, Gaston Bell, Robert Graham, Bernard Seigel, Richard Wangemann, Fred Chaston and others, with property men, have been sent by the Lubin company to Saranac Lake to make some important feature pictures, the first being Eugene Walter's "The Wolf," which requires northern atmosphere. The company will probably stay at Saranac for three months. A full staff of photographers and scenic artists accompany the troop.

Prohibition's fight on the Pacific coast next fall will be waged with the aid of motion pictures, according to the decision of the temperance commission of the Federal Council of Churches. Colorado, California, Oregon and Washington, will be the battle ground.

Society News

The Elite Club was entertained this afternoon by Mrs. Robert Hiner, at her home in North Main street.

The Junior-Senior reception of the Raleigh high school, which was to have been held Tuesday night has been postponed until Thursday, on account of the death of Dr. C. L. Rea of Falmouth.

A reception will be given tomorrow afternoon for Mrs. Susan Margaret Tingley, at her home in West Fifth street. Mrs. Tingley will be ninety years old tomorrow and her many friends may call any time in the afternoon.

Relatives planned a very pleasant surprise for Mrs. Davis Wright Sunday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hudson in Arlington, the occasion being her birthday anniversary. Those present were, the Rev. and Mrs. K. L. Benton, and sons Virgil and Elmer, and daughters, Lena and Geneva of Rushville, Mr. and Mrs. Noville Hudson and family, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Hudson and family, and the Misses Ora Hudson, Elsie Hutchinson.

Amusements

The Princess will show the big feature "The Third Degree" for tonight and tomorrow. The management succeeded in getting it for the two days. It is taken from the play of the same name made famous by Heela Ware and staged by Charles Klein. The picture is in five parts and tells the exact story as when it was on the stage. The cast has been selected with remarkable care and it is said to be a great picture. A continuous show will be given tomorrow from 2 o'clock until 11 p. m.

The Gem will show a two reel Rex drama "From Father to Son" for the first picture tonight. Bob Leonard is featured and is said to be a thrilling drama. The other picture is a Nestor comedy entitled "When Billy Proposes." Lee Moran and Ramona Langley are featured. Tomorrow night Florence Lawrence will be seen in a three reel Victor feature, "The False Bride." Miss Lawrence plays a double role, that a young wife wholesome and high spirited, and Amy St. Clair, a creature of the underworld. One is supposed to be an exact duplicate of the other in face and physique, but radically different in temperament and morals. Miss Lawrence is said to play both parts with convincing precision and with the usual skill that is her habit.

Democratic Legislation
 Charles B. Landis, a former congressman from Indiana, calls attention to the fact that on March 9 a bill passed the United States Senate
 which, if enacted into law, will provide that there be paid to about 175
 graduates of West Point, who resigned their commissions in the regular army, went over to the Confederacy and tried for four years to destroy the Union, claims aggregating about $165,000 and representing the money due these officers from the time of their last payment up to the date of their resignation.
 It merely shows the attitude of the Democratic congress on such questions and calls to mind that, as suggested by Mr. Landis, since it has gone this far, it might as well provide that Jeff. Davis, Bob Toombs and the whole crowd who were in the Congress of the United States at that same time be paid the amount due
 them on their salaries for the unfulfilled portions of the terms for which they were elected.

 And in conclusion he adds:
 And then I think it would be entirely appropriate for Congress to pass a resolution apologizing for the course followed by Abraham Lincoln,
 Ulysess S. Grant and several million Union soldiers who at the time were thought to be patriots for pursuing a course calculated to preserve the Union.

What Our Neighbors
Are Talking About
 *****
Psychology In Politics
 (Shelbyville Republican)

There is something psychological
 in politics. Some people call it political fatalism. The people get started one way and there is no way to head them off. In one year a man or a measure is amazingly popular,
 not because of special inherent virtues in the man or the measure, but because the people have an inclination that way. The next year the man or the measure may be just as unpopular as he or it was popular
 the year before and have changed absolutely not one bit. The temper
 of the people, however, has changed.
 The tendency is now toward unpopularity. It is only the old cry—when one ruler, a king dies, and another ascends the throne, "The King is Dead—Long Live the King." For a year Woodrow Wilson has been president. He has been psychologically popular. There was no one throwing stones at Wilson or saying unkind things about him. All was a golden glamour of popularity. Whatever he did was praised; it was not even criticised by the opposition. A good many things are now being said about Mr. Wilson that are not so complimentary. He forced the tariff bill through and its workings seem to be working well for England and other foreign countries but against
 the best interests of the working men
 the manufacturers, the farmers and
 the business men of this country.
 The currency measure was forced
 through and a whole lot of people
 simply call it an inflation measure
 that may bolster up a fictitious prosperity but in the long run benefit chiefly the bankers and the big moneyed classes and hurt the average citizen, of whom there are so many.
 The foreign policy of Wilson and Bryan is also pronounced rather weak-kneed, in the Mexican situation, in the Japanese embroglio and
 on the Panama shipping question
 with Great Britain and Germany.
 No, Mr. Wilson is not psychologically popular now, he is not praised unstintedly as a man who could not be mistaken. The cold facts are now looked squarely in the face and he will be judged by the fruits of his administration. He will get some jolts as time goes by because things
 are being made harder and harder
 for the people and they realize that
 and they will locate the blame on the Democratic party and its leaders for
 it rightly belongs there.

NATIVE OF RUSH COUNTY IS DEAD

Judge John C. Robinson, Dean of Bar at Spencer, Ind., Died Yes- terday of Pneumonia.

BORN AT NEW SALEM IN 1840

[Special to the Daily Republican.]
 Spencer, Ind., April 6.—John C.
 Robinson, dean of the Spencer bar and one of the best known attorneys in southern Indiana, died of pneumonia at his home in this city Sunday.

Judge Robinson was born at New Salem, Rush county, Indiana, in 1840.
 He was educated in the common schools and at Indiana university, where he received the degree of bachelor of arts in 1861. Coming to Spencer in 1865 he engaged in the practice of law and became active in Democratic politics. In 1872 he was elected prosecuting attorney of the district.

He was re-elected to the same office in 1874, and in 1876 was elected judge of the circuit court. He was one of the members of the commission that built the Southern Indiana Hospital for the Insane at Evansville, and was the Democratic nominee for reporter of the Supreme Court of Indiana in 1872. He was journal clerk of the United States House of Representatives during Cleveland's first administration.

Car by a Frightened Horse.

(Special to the Daily Republican)
 Greenfield, Ind., April 6.—Will Sutton, 20 years old son of William Sutton of near Morristown was instantly killed one mile east of this city Saturday evening by a T. H. I. & E. traction car. He was driving east on the National road when the horse became frightened at an approaching automobile. Sutton got out to hold the horse and just as the car passed
 the horse jumped, throwing him directly under the interurban car. The horse also was instantly killed.

ATTENDED EVERY SESSION

Mrs. H. S. Lane, Who Died Today,
Attended All Republican
Conventions.

(By United Press.)
 Crawfordsville, Ind., April 6.—Mrs.
 Henry S. Lane, age 85 years, a personal friend of Abraham Lincoln,
 died suddenly today at her home
 here. Her husband was elected governor of Indiana in 1860, but after serving one day, he resigned to become United States Senator. He was succeeded by Oliver P. Morton, the war governor. She was a woman of striking personality. Her husband presided over the first Republican national convention and Mrs. Lane
 has attended every succeeding one.

Last News.

(By United Press.)
 Portland, Me., April 6.—Mrs. Lillian M. N. Stevens, national president of the W. C. T. U., and vice-president of the World's Union, died at her home here today after an illness of several weeks. She was born here
 March 1, 1844. She was taken ill
 shortly after her return from Washington in December, when she conducted a strenuous campaign before congress for a national prohibition law. Mrs. Stevens was greatly cheered when the news was brought to her that Secretary Daniels had issued a sweeping order to prohibit the use of intoxicating liquors in the navy.
 "It is splendid. Another step to national prohibition," she said.

iards Are Not Moved by Villa.

(By United Press.)
 Torreon, April 6.—Owing to the crowded condition between Torreon and Chihuahua, some delay was being experienced today in moving 600
 Spaniards, who were ordered deported by General Villa. Every available engine is being used to bring immediate supplies. Villa hopes to have passenger coaches for the women and children and the older men. Younger men will have to ride in box cars.

was asked what complaint she had died of. "No complaint," he answered, "EVERYBODY IS SATISFIED." THAT IS THE WAY OUR BUGGY CUSTOMERS ARE—Everybody satisfied, and that is what an honest guarantee should mean. There is no buggy built so good but what some time or other one will go wrong and the wonder is we do not have more complaints considering the amount of vehicle business we do. We are ready at all times when one of our vehicles go wrong to live up to our STANDARD which guarantees satisfaction and what is more, we are willing to let our customers make their own statements as to what satisfaction is. We carry the most complete line of vehicles in Rush County, and we want your vehicle business and we are going to get it if square dealing, vehicles of quality, honest guarantee and prices that competition will not meet appeals to you. When you need a vehicle take time to see what we can do for you and if you do this we will get your business.

PRIMARY FIGHT
ON IN ALABAMA

State is Wrought up Over Battle Between Underwood and Hobson For Nomination to Senate

EQUAL TO BEING ELECTED

National Political Issues Injected Into Contest and "Wet" and "Dry" Question Involved

Birmingham, Ala., April 6.—Not in years has Alabama been so wrought up over politics as in the state wide Democratic primary elections held today. Interest centered in the contest of Representative Oscar A. Underwood, of Birmingham, Democratic floor leader of the national House of Representatives, and Representative Richmond P. Hobson of Greensboro, "hero of Santiago Bay", for the nomination for U. S. Senator to succeed the late Senator Johnston. The nomination is equivalent to election. A full state ticket from governor down, and Representatives in all districts, were to be chosen by the Democratic voters today. As a rule the Republicans did not figure today. In some districts they "went through the motions." All Democratic nominations at stake today, however, are equivalent to election at the general election next fall.

The polls opened at 9 o'clock today and close at 5 p. m. Indications were that a heavy vote would be cast, particularly because of the injection of the liquor questions into the Hobson-Underwood and other factional fights. Managers of both Hobson and Underwood candidacies confidently predicted success. Underwood managers claimed at least fifty of the sixty seven counties. Hobson closed a spectacular campaign Saturday. He used automobiles and motorcycles to speak in practically every city, village and hamlet. Underwood spent a fortnight in the state, several months ago, making 15 speeches. "Oscar W. Underwood, the man on the job" has been his campaign cry. Emphasis has been laid on his continual presence at duty in Washington while Hobson has been absent almost constantly from the Capital since the campaign began, stamping the state.

Injection of national political issues into the Hobson-Underwood contest has added to the fireworks. Hobson has accused Underwood of opposing woman suffrage, national prohibition and legislation to abolish cotton exchange gambling. Underwood has stood for local option on the liquor question, contended that woman suffrage is a state and not a national issue, and stood champion for a substitute plan to regulate cotton gambling which he contended, was approved by President Wilson and party leaders. The "Wet" and "Dry" fight and that relating to woman suffrage has aroused the rural population particularly. Underwood is expected to draw his greatest strength from the cities on his local option stand. His service for eighteen years in the House, his work in drawing the Wilson-Underwood tariff bill and as the "favorite son" of Alabama in the late contest for the Presidential nomination at Baltimore are drawing cards for Underwood. That Hobson has been absent from Congress, on the chautauqua circuit for weeks and even months at a time is the principal absenteeism criticism made by the Underwood campaigners.

They have also charged Hobson with advocating enfranchisement of negroes by espousing the direct election of the President and twit Hobson for voting to reinstate the negro regiment which shot up Brownsville, Tex.

Regardless of results at the polls today, both Hobson and Underwood retire from the House on March 4 next. They cannot run for the House and the Senate at the same time, and their successors will be named today. Candidates to succeed Underwood in the House are Nathan K. Miller, C. King and George Huddleston, of Birmingham, and George Darden, of Oneonta. Miller is the "favorite." He is a close friend of Underwood, but is running on a "Dry" platform, while Jere C. King, not an Underwood clansman, is running on a "wet" platform. Both are former members of the state legislature. Huddleston was a member of the local city council and Darden served in the Alabama house of representatives.

In Hobson's district, William Bankhead, son of the U. S. Senator, of Jasper, Ala., and William Oliver, of Tuscaloosa, county attorney, are candidates to succeed Hobson. Young Bankhead has the support of the so-called "Bankhead-Underwood machine." That between 23,000 and 25,000 votes would be cast in Underwood's district—the Birmingham district—was predicted today. The fight for the gubernatorial nomination between former Gov. Braxton Bragg Comer, and former Lieut. Gov. Walter D. Seed hinges largely upon the prohibition question. They have resorted to acute personalities, Comer, who is 63 years of age, having drawn a knife and threatened Seed at Dadeville, according to reports. Gov. O'Neal, accused of being a "wet" is against comer, a "dry."

Close contests were expected today in the congressional districts of Representatives Henry D. Clayton, chairman of the national House judiciary committee, in charge of some of the administrations anti-trust bills; Representative John L. Burnett, of Gadsden, Representative E. L. Blackmen, of Anniston; Representatives S. Hubert Dent, of Montgomery, and Representative George Taylor, of Demopolis. Representative J. Thomas Heflin, of Lafayette is without opposition, although some fight is being made upon Heflin because of his pronounced opposition to woman suffrage. Representative Richardson, of Huntsville is not a candidate for re-election.

Representative Clayton's district is a storm center. The vote is expected to be extremely close. His opponent is Henry S. Steagall, of Ozark, a young attorney, who entered the race after Clayton had announced that he would be a candidate for Senator. When Clayton retired to give Underwood a free field against Hobson as suggested in a letter to Clayton from President Wilson, Steagall refused to do likewise and has waged a vigorous and thorough campaign.

TWO HOTELS NAMED
BY COMMITTEE

Denison and Serverin Will be Headquarters for G. A. R. Encampment, May 6 to 8

CONVENTION ON ROOF GARDEN

(By United Press.)
Indianapolis, Ind., April 6.—Headquarters for the G. A. R. encampment May 6-7-8 will be at the Denison and Severin hotels, according to the decision reached today by the hotels committee.

The G. A. R., the Woman's Relief Corps and the Ladies of the G. A. R. will go to the Denison, where they will be given the use of the various parlors and meeting rooms of the hotel. The Denison was chosen because of its proximity to Tomlinson hall where the G. A. R. sessions will be held and because of the good treatment received there last year.

The Sons of Veterans and the Ladies Auxiliary to the Sons of Veterans will go to the Severin. The roof garden and the top floor hall will be used for the convention sessions.

CHAPTER II.

MR. REYNOLDS came back soon and reported the house quiet and in order.

"But I found Peter shut up in one of the third floor rooms," he said. "Did you put him there?"

I had not said so, but as the dog went everywhere and the door might have blown shut we did not attach much importance to that at the time.

Well, the skiff was gone, and there was no use worrying about it until morning. I went back to the sofa to keep warm, but I left my candle lighted and my door open. I did not sleep. The dead cat was on my mind, and as if it were not bad enough to have it washed in at my feet about 4 in the morning Peter, prowling uneasily, discovered it and brought it in and put it on my couch, wet and stiff, poor little thing!

I looked at the clock. It was a quarter after 4, and except for the occasional crunch of one ice cake hitting another in the yard, everything was quiet. And then I heard the stealthy sound of oars in the lower hall.

I am not a brave woman. I lay there, hoping Mr. Reynolds would hear and open his door. But he was sleeping soundly. Peter snarled and ran out into the hall, and the next moment I heard Mr. Ladley speaking. "Down, Peter," he said. "Down. Go and lie down."

I took my candle and went out into the hall. Mr. Ladley was stooping over the boat, trying to tie it to the staircase. The rope was short, having been cut, and he was having trouble. Perhaps it was the candle light, but he looked ghost white and haggard.

"I borrowed your boat, Mrs. Pitman," he said, civilly enough. "Mrs. Ladley was not well, and I—I went to the drug store."

"You've been more than two hours going to the drug store," I said.

He muttered something about not finding any open at first and went into his room. He closed and locked the door behind him and, although Peter whined and scratched, he did not let him in.

"I borrowed your boat, Mrs. Pitman."

He looked so agitated that I thought I had been harsh and perhaps she was really ill. I knocked at the door and asked if I could do anything. But he only called "No!" curtly through the door and asked me to take that infernal dog away.

I went back to bed and tried to sleep, for the water had dropped an inch or so on the stairs, and I knew the danger was over. Peter came, shivering, at dawn and got on to the sofa with me. I put an end of the quilt over him, and he stopped shivering after a time and went to sleep.

The dog was company. I lay there, wide awake, thinking about Mr. Pitman's death, and how I had come by degrees to be keeping a cheap boarding house in the flood district and to having to take impudence from everybody who chose to rent a room from me and to being called a she devil. From that I got to thinking again about the Ladleys and how she had said he was a fiend and to doubting about his having gone out for medicine for her. I dozed off again at daylight, and being worn out I slept heavily.

At 7 o'clock Mr. Reynolds came to the door, dressed for the store. He was a tall man of about fifty, neat and orderly in his habits, and he always remembered that I had seen better days and treated me as a lady.

"Never mind about breakfast for me

this morning, Mrs. Pitman," he said. "I'll get a cup of coffee at the other end of the bridge. I'll take the boat and send it back with Terry."

He turned and went along the hall and down to the boat. I heard him push off from the stairs with an oar and row out into the street. Peter followed him to the stairs.

He went back and slammed his door and I made his coffee. I steeped a cup of tea for Mrs. Ladley at the same time. He opened the door just wide enough for the tray and took it without so much as a "thank you." He had a cigarette in his mouth as usual and I could see a fire in the grate and smell something like scorching cloth.

"I hope Mrs. Ladley is better," I said, getting my foot in the crack of the door so he could not quite close it. It smelled to me as if he had accidentally set fire to something with his cigarette and I tried to see into the room.

"What about Mrs. Ladley?" he snapped.

"You said she was ill last night." "Oh, yes! Well, she wasn't very sick. She's better."

"Shall I bring her some tea?"

"Take your foot away!" he ordered. "No. She doesn't want tea. She's not here."

"Not here!"

"Good heavens!" he snarled. "Is her going away anything to make such a fuss about? The Lord knows I'd be glad to get out of this infernal pig wallow myself."

"If you mean my house"—I began.

But he had pulled himself together and was more polite when he answered: "I mean the neighborhood. Your house is all that could be desired for the money. If we do not have linen sheets and double cream we are paying muslin and milk prices."

Either my nose was growing accustomed to the odor or it was dying away. I took my foot away from the door. "When did Mrs. Ladley leave?" I asked.

"This morning, very early. I rowed her to Federal street."

"You couldn't have had much sleep."

I said dryly, for he looked horrible. There were lines around his eyes, which were red, and his lips looked dry and cracked.

"She's not in the piece this week at the theater," he said, licking his lips and looking past me, not at me. "She'll be back by Saturday."

I did not believe him. I do not think he imagined that I did. He shut the door in my face, and it caught poor Peter by the nose. The dog ran off howling, but although Mr. Ladley had been as fond of the animal as it was in his nature to be fond of anything, he paid no attention. As I started down the hall after him I saw what Peter had been carrying—a slipper of Mrs. Ladley's. It was soaked with water. Evidently Peter had found it floating at the foot of the stairs.

Although the idea of murder had not entered my head at that time, the slipper gave me a turn. I picked it up and looked at it, a black one with a beaded toe, short in the vamp and high heeled, the sort most actresses wear. Then I went back and knocked at the door of the front room again.

"What the devil do you want now?" he called from beyond the door.

"Here's a slipper of Mrs. Ladley's," I said. "Peter found it floating in the lower hall."

He opened the door wide and let me in. The room was in tolerable order, much better than when Mrs. Ladley was about. He looked at the slipper, but he did not touch it. "I don't think that is hers," he said.

"I've seen her wear it a hundred times."

"Well, she'll never wear it again." And then, seeing me stare, he added: "It's ruined with the water. Throw it out. And, by the way, I'm sorry, but I set fire to one of the pillow slips; dropped asleep, and my cigarette did the rest. Just put it on the bill."

He pointed to the bed. One of the pillows had no slip, and the ticking cover had a scorch or two on it. I went over and looked at it.

"The pillow will have to be paid for; too, Mr. Ladley," I said. "And there's a sign nailed on the door that forbids

MOTHER TELLS

How Her Little Girl Was Restored to Health.

Mrs. Chas. Schrieffer of 139 Him-rob St., Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "My little girl was frail, sickly and all run down after having had the grippe. I was advised to give her Vinol and after the first bottle noticed an improvement. She has taken four bottles and has picked up rapidly, having gained six pounds in three weeks."

The reason Vinol builds up weak ailing children so quickly is because it contains in a delicious combination the two most world famed tonics—i. e., the strength creating, body building elements of cod liver oil, with all the useless grease eliminated, and tonic iron for the blood added. If you have a weak, puny, ailing child try Vinol on our offer to return your money if it fails to benefit your little one. F. B. Johnson & Co. Druggists, Rushville, Indiana.

smoking in bed. If you are going to set fire to things I shall have to charge extra."

"Really!" he jeered, looking at me with his cold, fishy eyes. "Is there any sign on the door saying that boarders are charged extra for seven feet of filthy river in the bedrooms?"

I was never a match for him, and I make it a principle never to bandy words with my boarders. I took the pillow and the slipper and went out. The telephone was ringing on the stair landing. It was the theater, asking for Miss Brice.

"She has gone away," I said.

"What do you mean? Moved away?"

"Gone for a few days' vacation," I replied. "She isn't playing this week, is she?"

"Wait a moment," said the voice. There was a hum of conversation from the other end, and then another man came to the telephone.

"Can you find out where Miss Brice has gone?"

"I'll see."

I went to Ladley's door and knocked. Mr. Ladley answered from just beyond.

"The theater is asking where Mrs. Ladley is."

"Tell them I don't know," he snarled, and shut the door. I took his message to the telephone.

Whoever it was swore and hung up the receiver.

All the morning I was uneasy—I hardly knew why. Peter felt it as I did. There was no sound from the Ladleys' room, and the house was quiet, except for the lapping water on the stairs and the police patrol going back and forth.

At 11 o'clock a boy in the neighborhood, paddling on a raft, fell into the water and was drowned. I watched the police boat go past, carrying his little cold body, and after that I was good for nothing. I went and sat with Peter on the stairs. The dog's conduct had been strange all morning. He had sat just above the water, looking at it and whimpering. Perhaps he was expecting another kitten or—

It is hard to say how ideas first enter one's mind. But the notion that Mr. Ladley had killed his wife and thrown her body into the water came to me as I sat there. All at once I seemed to see it all—the quarreling the day before, the night trip in the boat, the water soaked slipper, his haggard face that morning—even the way the spaniel sat and stared at the flood.

Terry brought the boat back at half past 11, towing it behind another.

"Well," I said from the stairs, "I hope you've had a pleasant morning."

"What doing?" he asked, not looking at me.

"Rowing about the streets. You've had that boat for hours."

He tied it up without a word to me, but he spoke to the dog. "Good morning, Peter," he said. "It's nice weather—for fishes, ain't it?"

He picked out a bit of floating wood from the water, and showing it to the dog, flung it into the parlor. Peter went after it with a splash. He was pretty fat, and when he came back I heard him wheezing. But what he brought back was not the stick of wood. It was the knife I use for cutting bread. It had been on a shelf in the room where I had slept the night before, and now Peter brought it out of the flood where its wooden handle had kept it afloat. The blade was broken off short.

It is not unusual to find one's household goods floating around during flood time. More than once I've lost a chair or two and seen it after the water had gone down, new scrubbed and painted, in Molly Maguire's kitchen next door. And perhaps now and then a bit of luck would come to me—a dog kennel or a chicken house, or a kitchen table, or even, as happened once, a month old baby in a wooden cradle, that lodged against my back fence and had come forty miles, as it turned out, with no worse mishap than a cold in its head.

But the knife was different. I had put it on the mantel over the stove I was using upstairs the night before and hadn't touched it since. As I sat staring at it, Terry took it from Peter and handed it to me.

"Better give me a penny, Mrs. Pitman," he said in his impudent Irish way. "I hate to give you a knife. It may cut our friendship."

I reached over to hit him a clout on the head, but I did not. The sunlight was coming in through the window at the top of the stairs, and shining on the rope that was tied to the banister. The end of the rope was covered with stains, bright with a glint of red in them.

I got up shivering. "You can get the meat at the butcher's, Terry," I said, "and come back for me in half an hour." Then I turned and went upstairs, weak in the knees, to put on my hat and coat. I had made up my mind that there had been murder done.

I looked at my clock as I went downstairs. It was just 12:30. I thought of telephoning for Mr. Reynolds to meet me, but it was his lunch hour, and besides, I was afraid to telephone from the house while Mr. Ladley was in it.

Peter had been whining again. When I came down the stairs he had stopped whimpering and was wagging his tail. A strange boat had put into the hallway and was coming back.

"Now, old boy!" somebody was saying from the boat. "Steady, old chap! I've got something for you!"

A little man, elderly and alert, was standing up in the boat, poling it along with an oar. Peter gave vent to joyful yelps. The elderly gentleman brought his boat to a stop at the foot of the stairs and, reaching down into a tub at his feet, held up a large piece of raw liver. Peter almost went crazy, and I remember suddenly that

I had forgotten to feed the poor beast for more than a day.

"Would you like it?" asked the gentleman. Peter sat up, as he had been taught to do, and barked. The gentleman reached down again, got a wooden platter from a stack of them at his feet and, placing the liver on it, put it on the step. The whole thing was so neat and businesslike that I could only gaze.

"That's a well trained dog, madam," said the elderly gentleman, beaming at Peter over his glasses. "You should not have neglected him."

"The flood put him out of my mind," I explained, humbly enough, for I was ashamed.

"Exactly. Do you know how many starving dogs and cats I have found this morning?" He took a notebook out of his pocket and glanced at it. "Forty-eight! Forty-eight, madam! And ninety-three cats! I have found them marooned in trees, clinging to fences, floating on barrels, and I have found them in comfortable houses where there was no excuse for their neglect. Well, I must be moving on. I have the report of a cat with a new litter in the loft of a stable near here."

He wiped his hands carefully on a fresh paper napkin, of which also a heap rested on one of the seats of the boat, and picked up an oar, smiling benevolently at Peter. Then suddenly he bent over and looked at the stained rope end tied to the stair rail.

"What's that?" he said.

"That's what I'm going to find out," I replied. I glanced up at the Ladleys' door, but it was closed.

The little man dropped his oar and, fumbling in his pockets, pulled out a small magnifying glass. He bent over, holding to the rail, and inspected the stains with the glass. I had taken a fancy to him at once, and in spite of my excitement I had to smile a little.

"Humph," he said and looked up at me; "that's blood! Why did you cut the boat loose?"

"I didn't," I said. "If that is blood I want to know how it got there. That was a new rope last night." I glanced at the Ladleys' door again, and he followed my eyes.

"I wonder," he said, raising his voice a little, "if I come into your kitchen if you will allow me to fry a little of that liver. There's a wretched Maltese in a tree at the corner of Fourth street that won't touch it raw."

I saw that he wanted to talk to me, so I turned around and led the way to the temporary kitchen I had made.

"Now," he said briskly when he had closed the door, "there's something wrong here. Perhaps if you will tell me I can help. If I can't it will do you good to talk about it. My name's Holcombe, retired merchant. Apply to First National bank for references."

"I'm not sure there is anything wrong," I began. "I guess I'm only nervous and thinking little things are big ones. There's nothing to tell."

"Nonsense. I come down the street in my boat. A white faced gentleman, with a cigarette, looks out from a window when I stop at the door and ducks back when I glance up. I come in and find a pet dog, obviously overfed at ordinary times, whining with hunger on the stairs. As I prepare to feed him a pale woman comes down, trying to put a right hand glove on her left hand and with her jacket wrong side out. What am I to think?"

I started and looked at my coat. He was right. And when as I tried to take it off he helped me and even patted me on the shoulder—what with his kindness and the long morning alone, worrying, and the sleepless night, I began to cry. He had a clean handkerchief in my hand before I had time to think of one.

"That's it," he said. "It will do you good, only don't make a noise about it. If it's a husband on the annual flood spree don't worry, madam. They always come around in time to white-wash the cellars."

"It isn't a husband," I sniffled. "Tell me about it," he said. There was something so kindly in his face and it was so long since I had had a bit of human sympathy that I almost broke down again.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

Able to Depend Upon a Well-

For months Rushville readers have seen the constant expression of praise for Doan's Kidney Pills, and read about the good work they have done in this locality. What other remedy ever produced such convincing proof of merit?

Mrs. W. A. Wylie, 824 N. Arthur St., Rushville, Ind., says: "One of the family had attacks of backache, caused by disordered kidneys. Doan's Kidney Pills were finally brought to our attention and we got a supply at Johnson & Co's Drug Store. Two boxes relieved him of the trouble. Our former endorsement of this remedy still holds good." Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Wylie had. ## SAYS THEY ARE VERY MUCH ALIVE

Twenty-Two Lost Amendments to Indiana Constitution are Not
"Lost" Declares Stotsenburg

NO RIGHT OF VETO IN THIS

See That They are Properly Presented to Next Assembly if Convention is Not Called.

New Albany, Ind., April 6.—That the twenty-two "lost" amendments to the Indiana constitution are not lost, that they are not dead, and that no one is to blame for the apparent loss, was the positive statement made today to the United Press by Evan B. Stotsenburg of this city, state senator. Mr. Stotsenburg fathered the amendments, and he is also the father of the bill providing for a referendum vote on the constitutional convention.

While the delicate point of interpretation involved has not been passed upon by the Indiana courts, Stotsenburg said that usage in this state and decisions in the courts of Louisiana, Michigan, Maryland, North Dakota, Pennsylvania and Nebraska, as well as the Supreme court of the United States, are to the effect that the Governor has no function to perform as to proposed amendments to the constitution. He said that therefore the fact that Governor Ralston did not sign the resolution and that it was not signed by the officers of the house and senate, and the fact that there is no record of the resolutions, other than in the original journals of the house and senate, will not kill the amendments.

"These amendments are very much alive, and in the event the call for a constitutional convention fails, they will be presented to the next general assembly for ratification, and if agreed to will be submitted to the electors either at a general or special election as the assembly may determine," said Senator Stotsenburg.

"The Governor has no right of veto of proposed amendments to the constitution," said Stotsenburg. "This is not legislating in the ordinary sense. The governor has no function whatever to perform. While legislation must be enrolled and submitted to the governor, the constitutional provision so requiring does not apply to the proposed amendments."

Stotsenburg explained why he introduced the amendments.

"These amendments were introduced by me at the same time I introduced the bill providing for submitting to the votes of the state the question of calling a constitutional convention. My study of the constitution convinced me that the present document needs amending in only a few particulars. If the call for a constitution convention failed, no amendments to the present constitution could be had until two general assemblies passed upon them. In order to save this delay, the amendments were proposed and started on their way, so that at least the most important of the desired changes could be submitted to the people by the next general assembly."

The senator said he did not expect to be a member of the next general assembly, but that if a constitutional convention is not called he would "of course see to it that they are properly presented to the assembly by some member."

The direct conflict in the constitution as to treatment of amendments in resolution form is minimized by Stotsenburg. He had nothing to say about the apparently slipshod manner in which the constitution allows its proposed amendments to lie in obscurity unknown to state officials and the people generally.

HE IS UNDER QUARANTINE

Pitcher Frank Romine is Suffering From Smallpox.

Frank Romine, who pitched for the Newcastle team last season, and who is signed to pitch for the Indianapolis Reserves this year, is under quarantine in his home at Pennville, near Portland, with an attack of smallpox. He is said to have the disease in a mild form. Romine will probably not be able to play baseball for at least three weeks and the Reserves will start the season with another pitcher. Romine has a strong constitution and is not expected to suffer any bad effects from the attack.

TRAINS DETOURED BY WAY OF CHICAGO

Wreck Crew Engaged Today Clearing up Debris Caused by Wreck of Wabash Train Near Attica.

3 DEAD; OVER 40 INJURED

Attica, Ind., April 6.—All St. Louis trains were detoured by way of Chicago today and will continue that way for a week while workmen clear away the wreck of the Continental Limited on the Wabash railroad which ran through the Wabash river bridge near here yesterday, killing three and injuring over forty.

The dead are: J. A. Thomas, express agent, Huntington, Ind.; Tim Hull, engineer, Peru, Ind.; Jacob Miller, fireman, Peru, Ind. It is not thought any of the injured will die. A heavy refrigerator car jumped the track at the east end of the bridge, throwing the span near the east abutment out of line and bending one of the vertical supports about two feet. The wrecking crew had just succeeded in clearing this wreck.

Road Superintendent Whitehead examined the bridge and, concluding that it was safe, so reported to the dispatcher. The Continental Limited started across the bridge slowly. As the big engine started across the last span, the bridge weakened and began to crumble at the first pier. Two spans fell and plunged the engine and several cars into the river.

GETS NO RESPONSE FROM PRESIDENT

Criticism of Federal Reserve Districts Under New Currency Law is Being Made.

OUT OF NAVY CONTROVERSY

(By United Press.)

Washington, April 6.—Adverse criticism of the make-up of the federal reserve districts under the currency law created by Secretaries McAdoo and Houston is meeting with no response from President Wilson. The executive said today he believed the selections were honestly made; that they were decided on after a complete investigation of the actual trade conditions and capitalization and exchange methods of banks in each district. The President indicated that he believed the selection would not be upset by the federal reserve board when it is named.

Reports of impending recognition of Mexican Rebels are premature. The President said today that he had no request of this character from General Carranza. He further made it plain that circumstances alone will determine what he shall take in the recognition of any government in Mexico.

Persident Wilson today refused to be drawn into the controversy which has arisen through the issuance of an order through Secretary Daniels making the navy "dry." He took the position that it is a departmental matter entirely.

BUICK---1914

There are some motor cars that sell for less money than Buicks. But they cost more.

There's a model for everybody in the 1914 Buick line. Everything is left side drive and center control.

The B-36 roadster is the pepperyest four cylinder car you ever drove, and it has all the style that makes the people you pass take that second look. The B-37 on the same chassis has caused a bigger sensation than any other four cylinder car brought out by any concern in the past few years.

We guarantee that the Buick six-cylinder car with five passengers will tour over ordinary roads on not to exceed one gallon of gasoline consumption to every fifteen miles traveled, and frequent actual road tests have assured us that it is possible to get as high as twenty miles per gallon.

JUST THEN TWO 'COPS' APPEARED

Roy Innes, Colored, Was Coaxing the
Dice Very Hard to Keep That
Seven Away When—

ONE ROLLED OFF ON THE FLOOR

The Interested Crowd Looked up and
There Stood Two Policemen—
$5 and Costs For Two Players.

Roy Innes and Charles Burnett, colored, were fined five dollars and costs by Mayor Bebout Saturday night when they pleaded guilty to gaming. They were found with Milford Waverly, colored, James Beeraft and Cleatus Lloyd shooting craps in the L. B. Harris stable in South Julian street. The two made arrangements to pay the fines, amounting to $15 each, in weekly installments.

"Stay way seven," "get the quarter then we will shoot the half," were the sounds that greeted Chief Rosencrance and policeman Hunt Saturday afternoon about five o'clock when they were walking near the barn. Chief Rosencrance opened the door and watched the game for a few seconds. Innes was trying to make a pass for "two-bits" and Burnett had him faked.

Innes was coaxing the dice very hard to come for him when one rolled on the floor. The police yelled "cock dice" and the game ended. Chief Rosencrance reached over on the table and picked up the two quarters and the dice. All the men were taken to jail and were given a hearing that night before the mayor.

According to the testimony, Burnett and Innes were the only ones that were shooting craps. The other men stated that they were simply watching the game. They stated that the game had been in progress only a short time when the police arrived. The men have living apartments at the stable and the officers did not believe they could make a case against the other three men on the charge of visiting a gambling room.

Innes and Burnett were caught dead to rights and as Innes expressed it "there was nothing to do but plead guilty." Under the law the five dollar fine is the minimum and they were warned against any future appearance before Mayor Bebout on a similar charge. The arrest of the five men was not without its funny side. Burnett is from near Jeffersonville, and while he is at home he acts as a preacher to a small congregation near there.

While in jail Burnett told Mr. Harris that he hoped the folks down home did not hear of this as there would "be the devil to pay."

NOT MANY THERE.

The meeting of those who signed the Patterson "Catch-my pal" pledges scheduled for yesterday afternoon at the court house failed to materialize. Only a few were present and nothing was done toward an organization. It is planned to hold a meeting at a future date when an organization will more than likely be perfected.

COMMISSIONERS MEET.

The county commissioners held their first regular session of the month today. Nothing of importance was done and most of the day was put in allowing claims. The commissioners will meet again tomorrow and it is likely that several roads will come up for discussion.

CREDITORS HERE WILL COMPROMISE

All Sign Agreement Calling For Settlement With A. P. Walker For 70 Cents on The Dollar.

CIRCULATED IN INDIANAPOLIS

It was stated today that all the creditors of A. P. Walker in this city had signed the agreement whereby they were to receive seventy cents on the dollar in payment on their accounts against Walker. The paper was circulated here last week and it is understood that all the creditors signed. To put the agreement through, it will be necessary for every creditor to sign. It looks now as though the compromise would be reached.

Attorneys were to circulate the paper in Indianapolis today and secure the signature of the creditors there. Some of the Indianapolis creditors have already signed and it is hoped to get the remainder. Talk of a compromise has been heard for some time and it is believed that it will be decided definitely in a few days.

STOLE $ 31 FROM GEORGE ANDERSON

Thieves Entered His Home Saturday
Night While He Was Awake and Took His Trousers.

George Anderson, an aged and decrepit negro of this city, who attempts to do some draying business, was robbed of $31-Saturday night, according to the story which he told today. He said that he had retired early in his little hut in East Eighth street, but had not turned out the lamp in the room. He declared that he had not gone to sleep, although he had been in bed for some time, when some one entered the room, put out the light and pulled his trousers off the bed. George made no effort to give chase as he can scarcely walk.

The trousers were found in front of his house, but the $31, which he declares he had in one of his pockets, was missing. The robbery was not reported to the police.

APPOINTMENTS DELAYED.

(By United Press.)

South Bend, Ind., April 6.—Appointments of ministers in the North Indiana M. E. conference will not be made until late tonight. This is due to a large number of applications for moves. Resolutions were to be reported late this afternoon.

ATTENDANCE GOAL REACHED

Thousand and Thirty-one Persons
Present at "Kentucky Day" at
Christian Bible School.

CONTEST IS REFERRED TO

Former Rushville Minister Recommends Addition to Church to Care For the Large Crowd.

In the celebration of "Kentucky Day" at the Main Street Christian Bible school yesterday, the goal for attendance was reached—with thirty-one to spare. The mark was set at a thousand and the total number of persons present in the classes was 1,031. The secretary announced 1,001, which was considered a very close margin, but later it was announced a mistake in addition had been made and the attendance was 31 greater. The Loyal Women's class had 201 present, the largest class, and the Men's Century Bible class had the largest collection, $18.44.

R. C. Prewitt, superintendent of the Bible school at Winchester, Ky., and D. L. Pendleton, teacher of the men's class, both addressed the Bible school in a happy vein. They referred frequently, both humorously and with fine sentiment, to the recent contest in which they were defeated. Mr. Pendleton told how the bond of friendship between the two schools had been strengthened by the contest. Mrs. Bertha Green sang "My Old Kentucky Home" and a quartet also sang.

The Rev. J. H. MacNeill, pastor of the Winchester church and formerly pastor of the church here, preached at both services and was greeted by many old friends.

In the night sermon, the Rev. Mr. MacNeill turned his attention somewhat to local affairs. From his observations during his stay of a few days here, he said he had noted just three things the church ought to do. In the first place, he declared, the congregation should manage to keep the Rev. C. M. Yocum here as pastor and retain Hugh Manzy as superintendent of the Bible school. He paid many fine compliments to these two men.

In the third place, he continued, the church should erect a Sunday school plant on the lot west of the church. He recalled that this was a very wealthy congregation and that it should arrange to take the proper care of the large Sunday school attendance. He suggested that there should be at least a three-story building adjoining the church edifice, graded according to the most approved methods.

Plans for increasing the size of the church have been under consideration for some time. It has been suggested previously that an addition be erected at the southwest corner of the church so that the space now utilized by the hitch rack not be taken up. Apparently, however, this has been postponed for the present because a committee is now having prepared plans for improvement of the basement, which would increase the capacity of the building.

But the Rev. Mr. MacNeill pointed out last night that this improvement would not accommodate the Bible school and that it would not offer the opportunities to grade the classes as should be done.

The former pastor said there was no reason why the improvement he suggested could not be put through. In support of his contention, he called attention to the fact that since he had been in Winchester, his congregation had built a church plant at

Rushville Chamber of Commerce Will
Have Opportunity to Affiliate
With Indiana Organization.

WILL BE FORMED IN OCTOBER

More Committee Meetings Scheduled
to Take Place Today—Others
Will be Announced Soon.

Indications are that an Indiana Chamber of Commerce will be formed next October to take the place of the Indiana Federated Commercial Clubs, and since Rushville has only recently formed a Chamber of Commerce, it will be invited to join in the new organization.

In addition to Rushville, Chambers of Commerce have been formed only recently in Kokomo, Anderson, Lafayette, Laporte and Noblesville. In all probability more will be organized. It is expected, according to officials of the Indianapolis Chamber of Commerce who are at the head of the movement, that every Chamber of Commerce in Indiana will come into the new organization that will be formed along lines followed in other states.

The Chamber of Commerce here is starting out like a winner and the officers are very enthusiastic about the progress which is being made. L. B. Snelser, the secretary, is spending many hours a day at the job and is devoting all his spare moments to getting the Chamber in working order. Most of his duties now consist of starting the committees to work.

Two committees have already met and the greatest enthusiasm has prevailed at the sessions. Two more of the committees were to meet today and other meetings will be arranged for the other committees just as fast as possible.

The auditorium committee was to meet at Chamber of Commerce headquarters this afternoon at four-thirty o'clock and something definite was expected to result from the session. The need of an auditorium has been felt here for some time and it would not be at all improbable if the committee did hit upon some suggestions to bring about this improvement at some future date.

The manufactures committee is to meet at the headquarters this evening at seven-thirty o'clock. It is probable that there will be some announcements to make in regard to the meetings tomorrow.

The state Chamber of Commerce will be organized at the annual meeting of the federated clubs in October. It is planned to make the meeting a big event. Edward F. Trefz of Washington, D. C., field secretary of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, will be one of the speakers and George I. Christie of Purdue University will be another. There also will be speakers on good roads, fire prevention and an advocate of the 1-cent letter postage movement.

NINE MEN DEAD.

Memphis, Tenn., April 6.—Caught in the murky ducts of a crisscross, nine men employed in laying the foundation of the bridge across the Mississippi river were smothered to death today. The death house was finally broken open and the lifeless forms lifted out.

EASTERN STAR MEETING.

Martha Poe Chapter No. 143 O. E. S. will hold their regular meeting Tuesday night. A good attendance is desired.

FUNERAL WILL BE TUESDAY

Mrs. Lafayette Cox Dies Near New
Salem of Tuberculosis.

The funeral services of Mrs. Jane Cox, wife of Lafayette Cox, who died Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at her home east of New Salem will be held Tuesday morning at eleven o'clock in the U. B. church in Andersonville and burial will take place in the Hopewell cemetery. Mrs. Cox had been ill for a long time suffering from tuberculosis and death was expected. She was thirty-five years old. Mrs. Cox is survived by her husband and eight children, six sons and two daughters.

LEGISLATION ON FLOOD POSTPONED

This and Drainage and Water Power
Problems Will be Features of Democratic Legislation.

ANNOUNCEMENT MADE TODAY

(By United Press.)

Washington, April 6.—Flood prevention, drainage and water power problems are to be the "star" features of Democratic legislation in congress next winter, it was learned today.

President Edmund Perkins of the National Drainage Congress was authorized today for the statement that President Wilson, Speaker Clark and other Democratic leaders in congress have agreed to postpone all such legislation until the next session. Irrigation developments on a more business-like and comprehensive plan, annual rivers and harbor appropriations and other associated questions are to be solved.

Speaker Clark has a bill before congress as a substitute for the Newlands measure providing for the incorporation of states in methods of flood prevention and reclamation of flooded land.

CHIEF CARRIES BLACK EYE

Stops Piece of Statuary Thrown by
His Wife.

Chief of Police Rosencrance is carrying a "nifty" looking black eye as the result of a "heave" by Mrs. Rosencrance. During a jealous fit of anger last night, Mrs. Rosencrance threw a small piece of statuary at the chief. He failed to dodge in time and it landed on his left eye. The eye is badly blackened and is swollen considerably. Mrs. Rosencrance is very jealous of her husband and more so since he has been chief of police. The domestic trouble culminated last night.

MAKES FINAL PLEA.

Chicago, April 6.—Through a drizzling rain Miss Marion H. Drake and her squad of girl workers today tramped the gloomy alleys and streets of the tenement district of the first ward making final personal pleas for the votes of wives and mothers in tomorrow's aldermanic election when Miss Drake opposes "Bath House" John Coughlin. They climbed narrow stairways to talk to women bending over Monday's washing and talked to girls in laundries.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Dickman and family are moving into one of the Guffin houses in Morgan street between Sixth and Seventh streets.

DR. REA DIES AT FALMOUTH

Well Known Physician, Who Had
Been Ill More Than Two Years
Answers Death Summons.

PRACTICED HERE 23 YEARS

Born and Reared in Newcastle, he
Came to Rush County Soon
After Taking up Profession.

Dr. Charles L. Rea, 55 years old, a well known physician of Falmouth, died at his home there Sunday morning at 2:30 o'clock. Dr. Rea had been in ill health for a long time and death was due to a complication of diseases. Two years ago he underwent an operation at the sanatorium here and while it prolonged his life for a time, he never completely recovered.

An autopsy was held yesterday, and it was found that he had suffered from an ulcerated liver and other complications. He had been in a serious condition for the past four weeks and death was expected.

Dr. Rea was well known in this county and more so in and around Falmouth, where he had been practicing medicine for the past twenty-three years. He was the son of the late John Rea of Neweastle and was born in that city. He followed his father in the practice of medicine and graduated from the Ohio Medical College at Cincinnati. Following his graduation he practiced for a time with his father and then located in Rogersville, Henry county. He did not remain there long and moved to Falmouth where he had since practiced. He was well and favorably known to the profession and his loss will be greatly felt.

He is survived by his widow and one child, whom they reared, but never adopted. Dr. Rea also is survived by two sisters. They are Mrs. Elizabeth Gillies and Miss Frances Rea, both of Neweastle. Dr. Rea was one of a family of ten children and his two sisters are all that remain.

The funeral services will be conducted tomorrow morning at ten o'clock at the late residence in Falmouth and burial will take place in the Raleigh cemetery.

WANT OPTION ELECTION.

(Special to the Daily Republican)

Greenfield, Ind., April 6.—A petition bearing the signature of 378 voters were presented to the county commissioners here today asking that a local option election be called in Greenfield. The petition contained 152 more names than the necessary number of signatures.

The Town Market

The modern successor to the old Town Market are the advertising columns of the daily newspaper.

They are as much an improvement on the old system as the news columns are an advance over the Town-Crier.

Wise people nowadays consult the advertising in their newspaper before they purchase. It saves time and money.

It is economy and convenience in the best sense of the word.

Advertising has become a fixed factor in the science of domestic economy.

A MEDICINE OF MERIT

A proprietary medicine, like everything else that comes before the public, has to prove its merits. The way of the survival of the fittest applies in this field as in others. The reason for the tremendous success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is because it has been fulfilling a real human need for forty years, so that today thousands of American women owe their health and happiness to the marvelous power of this famous medicine, made from roots and herbs—nature's remedy for woman's ills.

MAY AFFECT THE MAIL SERVICE SOME

If Rumored L. E. & W. Time Change is Made, Local Connection Will be Hindered.

MAIL TWO DAYS LATE AT MAYS

It is rumored that a change of time is soon to be effective on the local division of the L. E. & W. The agent here has heard of the rumors but has received no official notice. He believes that the change will be made however. The hope is that the Rushville limited will leave Newcastle at nine o'clock in the morning instead of 7:10 o'clock as at present. This means that the train for Newcastle instead of leaving here at 10 o'clock will leave about noon. The change in time will affect the mail service at Spiceland and Mays. If the rural route carriers are not held until the arrival of the train from Newcastle, patrons of the rural routes receiving papers from this city will not get them until two days after they were printed.

There is still talk in Newcastle of the Pennsylvania taking over the track rights of this branch of the Lake Erie in order to get a direct route from Muncie to Louisville.

SUIT STOLEN.

While Mr. and Mrs. Forest Ricketts of South Harrison street were away from home yesterday someone entered the house and carried off a good suit of clothes belonging to Mr. Ricketts. The suit was practically new. The police were notified, but there is no clue.

TRADE BALANCE IS WITH THIS COUNTRY

For Period of Eight Months Ending With February, 1914 Exports Exceed Imports by $479,000,000.

MONTH AMOUNTS TO $26,000,000

(Special to the Daily Republican)
Washington, April 6.—Detailed figures of the imports into and exports from the United States for February and the eight months ended with February, 1914, published today by the Department of Commerce, show imports in February approximating $148,000,000, and exports $174,000,000, a total trade of $322,000,000. In the eight months' period ending with February, 1914, imports were a little below $1,216,000,000 and exports were something more than $1,695,000,000, and aggregate trade of $2,911,000,000. The trade balance favoring the United States is about $479,000,000 for the month of February, 1914, and for the eight months ended February, 1914, exceeds $179,000,000.

Looking at the figures by great groups the imports in February of the three classes of manufacturers were of "Foodstuffs partly or wholly manufactured" a little over $15,000,000, of "Manufactures for further use in manufacturing" something over $22,400,000, and of "Manufactures ready for consumption" more than $35,500,000, a total exceeding $73,500,000. Exports in the same classes were $22,100,000, $28,400,000, and $51,700,000, respectively, an aggregate of over $102,200,000. Each class of manufactures shows a substantial trade balance in favor of the United States. The imports of the three classes of manufactures for the eight months ended with February, 1914, exceeded $646,000,000 and the total exports surpassed $939,000,000 showing a balance of trade in favor of the United States approximating $293,000,000.

"THE CALL OF THE TRAUMEREL"

BETTY BROWN.

THOSE fond of music find "The Call of the Traumerel" (American) an interesting moving picture love story, with an artistic atmosphere that is interesting.

One of the vivacious players on the Essanay staff of moving picture producers is Miss Betty Brown, who often appears on Essanay films. Do you remember seeing her?

The shipwreck scene in "A Million Bids," which is now being presented at the Vitagraph theater, New York city, has made such an impression that the Vitagraph Company of America has purchased a manuscript calling for the actual wrecking of a large steamship. The steamship will be completely wrecked, for, after going on the rocks, it will be blown up with dynamite to depict the explosion of the boilers.

George W. Terwilliger and a company of Lubin players have gone to St. Augustine, Fla., to make several photo plays. "The Man From the Sea," by Paul Dickey and Charles Goddard, will be made a feature.

"The Great Mine Disaster" (Eclectic, four reels) is a splendid drama, photographed probably in England. The cast is strong and very capable. The settings are most accurate, some of them taken right inside a mine.

Rehearsals of the interior scenes of the play in which William Faversham has just contracted to appear for the Playgoers' Film company, will begin shortly in the studio at Yonkers, N. Y. The name of the production has not yet been announced. It will probably be one of the successes which has made the actor known from coast to coast during the past few years.

Director Barry O'Neil and a company including Lillie Leslie, Ruth Bryan, Clara Lambert, George S. Spencer, Fred Tidmarsh, Gaston Bell, Robert Graham, Bernard Seigel, Richard Wangemann, Fred Chaston and others, with property men, have been sent by the Lubin company to Saranac Lake to make some important feature pictures, the first being Eugene Walter's "The Wolf," which requires northern atmosphere. The company will probably stay at Saranac for three months. A full staff of photographers and scenic artists accompany the troop.

Prohibition's fight on the Pacific coast next fall will be waged with the aid of motion pictures, according to the decision of the temperance commission of the Federal Council of Churches. Colorado, California, Oregon and Washington, will be the battle ground.

—A reception will be given tomorrow afternoon for Mrs. Susan Margaret Tingley, at her home in West Fifth street. Mrs. Tingley will be ninety years old tomorrow and her many friends may call any time in the afternoon.

—Relatives planned a very pleasant surprise for Mrs. Davis Wright Sunday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hudson in Arlington, the occasion being her birthday anniversary. Those present were, the Rev. and Mrs. K. L. Benton, and sons Virgil and Elmer, and daughters, Lena and Geneva of Rushville, Mr. and Mrs. Noville Hudson and family, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Hudson and family, and the Misses Ora Hudson, Elsie Hutchinson.

—The Princess will show the big feature "The Third Degree" for tonight and tomorrow. The management succeeded in getting it for the two days. It is taken from the play of the same name made famous by Hech Ware and staged by Charles Klein. The picture is in five parts and tells the exact story as when it was on the stage. The cast has been selected with remarkable care and it is said to be a great picture. A continuous show will be given tomorrow from 2 o'clock until 11 p. m.

The Gem will show a two reel Rex drama "From Father to Son" for the first picture tonight. Bob Leonard is featured and is said to be a thrilling drama. The other picture is a Nestor comedy entitled "When Billy Proposed." Lee Moran and Ramona Langley are featured. Tomorrow night Florence Lawrence will be seen in a three reel Victor feature, "The False Bride." Miss Lawrence plays a double role, that of a young wife wholesome and high spirited, and Amy St. Clair, a creature of the underworld. One is supposed to be an exact duplicate of the other in face and physique, but radically different in temperament and morals. Miss Lawrence is said to play both parts with convincing precision and with the usual skill that is her habit.

Democratic Legislation

Charles B. Landis, a former congressman from Indiana, calls attention to the fact that on March 9 a
bill passed the United States Senate
which, if enacted into law, will provide that there be paid to about 175
graduates of West Point, who resigned their commissions in the regular army, went over to the Confederacy and tried for four years to destroy the Union, claims aggregating
about $165,000 and representing the
money due these officers from the
time of their last payment up to the date of their resignation.

It merely shows the attitude of the Democratic congress on such questions and calls to mind that, as suggested by Mr. Landis, since it has gone this far, it might as well provide that Jeff. Davis, Bob Tompkins
and the whole crowd who were in the Congress of the United States at that
same time be paid the amount due
them on their salaries for the unfulfilled portions of the terms for which

they were elected.

And in conclusion he adds:

And then I think it would be entirely appropriate for Congress to pass a resolution apologizing for the
course followed by Abraham Lincoln,
Ulysses S. Grant and several million
Union soldiers who at the time were thought to be patriots for pursuing a course calculated to preserve the Union.

What Our Neighbors Are Talking About

Psychology In Politics

(Shelbyville Republican)

There is something psychological
in politics. Some people call it political fatalism. The people get started one way and there is no way to head them off. In one year a man
or a measure is amazingly popular,
not because of special inherent virtues in the man or the measure, but
because the people have an inclination that way. The next year the
man or the measure may be just as unpopular as he or it was popular
the year before and have changed
absolutely not one bit. The temper
of the people, however, has changed.
The tendency is now toward unpopularity. It is only the old cry—when
one ruler, a king dies, and another
ascends the throne, "The King is Dead—Long Live the King." For a year Woodrow Wilson has been president. He has been psychologically popular. There was no one throwing stones at Wilson or saying unkind
things about him. All was a golden glamour of popularity. Whatever he did was praised; it was not even criticised by the opposition. A good many things are now being said
about Mr. Wilson that are not so complimentary. He forced the tariff bill through and its workings seem
to be working well for England and
other foreign countries but against
the best interests of the working men
the manufacturers, the farmers and
the business men of this country.
The currency measure was forced
through and a whole lot of people
simply call it an inflation measure
that may bolster up a fictitious prosperity but in the long run benefit
chiefly the bankers and the big monied classes and hurt the average citizen, of whom there are so many.
The foreign policy of Wilson and
Bryan is also pronounced rather
weak-kneed, in the Mexican situation, in the Japanese embroglio and
on the Panama shipping question
with Great Britain and Germany.
No, Mr. Wilson is not psychologically popular now, he is not praised unintendedly as a man who could not be mistaken. The cold facts are now looked squarely in the face and he will be judged by the fruits of his administration. He will get some jolts as time goes by because things
are being made harder and harder
for the people and they realize that
and they will locate the blame on the Democratic party and its leaders for
it rightly belongs there.

MORRISTOWN BOY KILLED

Will Sutton, Age 20, Hurlled Under
Car by a Frightened Horse.

(Special to the Daily Republican)
Greenfield, Ind., April 6.—Will Sut-
ton, 20 years old son of William Sutton of near Morristown was instantly
killed one mile east of this city Saturday evening by a T. H. I. & E. traction car. He was driving east on
the National road when the horse became frightened at an approaching automobile. Sutton got out to hold
the horse and just as the car passed
the horse jumped, throwing him directly under the interurban car. The horse also was instantly killed.

ATTENDED EVERY SESSION

Mrs. H. S. Lane, Who Died Today,
Attended All Republican Conventions.

(By United Press.)
Crawfordsville, Ind., April 6.—Mrs.
Henry S. Lane, age 85 years, a personal friend of Abraham Lincoln,
died suddenly today at her home
here. Her husband was elected governor of Indiana in 1860, but after serving one day, he resigned to become United States Senator. He was succeeded by Oliver P. Morton, the war governor. She was a woman of striking personality. Her husband
presided over the first Republican national convention and Mrs. Lane
has attended every succeeding one.

W. C. T. U. PRESIDENT DIES

Mrs. L. M. N. Stevens, Staunch Temperance Advocate, Cheered by Last News.

(By United Press.)
Portland, Me., April 6.—Mrs. Lillian M. N. Stevens, national president of the W. C. T. U. and vice-president of the World's Union, died at her
home here today after an illness of
several weeks. She was born here
March 1, 1844. She was taken ill
shortly after her return from Wash-

State is Wrought up Over Battle Between Underwood and Hobson For Nomination to Senate

EQUAL TO BEING ELECTED

National Political Issues Injected Into Contest and "Wet" and "Dry" Question Involved

(By United Press.)

Birmingham, Ala., April 6.—Not in years has Alabama been so wrought up over politics as in the state wide Democratic primary elections held today. Interest centered in the contest of Representative Oscar A. Underwood, of Birmingham, Democratic floor leader of the national House of Representatives, and Representative Richmond P. Hobson, of Greensboro, "hero of Santiago Bay", for the nomination for U. S. Senator to succeed the late Senator Johnston. The nomination is equivalent to election. A full state ticket from governor down, and Representatives in all districts, were to be chosen by the Democratic voters today. As a rule the Republicans did not figure today. In some districts they "went through the motions." All Democratic nominations at stake today, however, are equivalent to election at the general election next fall.

The polls opened at 9 o'clock today and close at 5 p. m. Indications were that a heavy vote would be cast, particularly because of the injection of the liquor questions into the Hobson-Underwood and other factional fights. Managers of both Hobson and Underwood candidacies confidently predicted success. Underwood managers claimed at least fifty of the sixty seven counties, Hobson closed a spectacular campaign Saturday. He used automobiles and motorcycles to speak in practically every city, village and hamlet. Underwood spent a fortnight in the state, several months ago, making 15 speeches. "Oscar W. Underwood, the man on the job" has been his campaign cry. Emphasis has been laid on his continual presence at duty in Washington while Hobson has been absent almost constantly from the Capital since the campaign began, stamping the state.

Injection of national political issues into the Hobson-Underwood contest has added to the fireworks. Hobson has accused Underwood of opposing woman suffrage, national prohibition and legislation to abolish cotton exchange gambling. Underwood has stood for local option on the liquor question, contended that woman suffrage is a state and not a national issue, and stood champion for a substitute plan to regulate cotton gambling which he contended, was approved by President Wilson and party leaders. The "Wet" and "Dry" fight and that relating to woman suffrage has aroused the rural population particularly. Underwood is expected to draw his greatest strength from the cities on his local option stand. His service for eighteen years in the House, his work in drawing the Wilson-Underwood tariff bill and as the "favorite son" of Alabama in the late contest for the Presidential nomination at Baltimore are drawing cards for Underwood. That Hobson has been absent from Congress, on the chautauqua circuit for weeks and even months at a time is the principal absenteeism criticism made by the Underwood campaigners.

They have also charged Hobson with advocating enfranchisement of negroes by espousing the direct election of the President and twit Hobson for voting to reinstate the negro regiment which shot up Brownsville, Tex.

Regardless of results at the polls today, both Hobson and Underwood retire from the House on March 4 next. They cannot run for the House and the Senate at the same time, and their successors will be named today. Candidates to succeed Underwood in the House are Nathan K. Miller, C. King and George Huddleston, of Birmingham, and George Darden, of Oneonta. Miller is the "favorite." He is a close friend of Underwood, but is running on a "Dry" platform, while Jere C. King, not an Underwood clansman, is running on a "wet" platform. Both are former members of the state legislature. Huddleston was a member of the local city council and Darden served in the Alabama house of representatives.

In Hobson's district, William Bankhead, son of the U. S. Senator, of Jasper, Ala., and William Oliver, of Tuscaloosa, county attorney, are candidates to succeed Hobson. Young Bankhead has the support of the so-called "Bankhead-Underwood machine." That between 23,000 and 25,000 votes would be cast in Underwood's district—the Birmingham district—was predicted today. The fight for the gubernatorial nomination between former Gov. Braxton Bragg Comer, and former Lieut. Gov. Walter D. Seed hinges largely upon the prohibition question. They have resorted to acerbic personalities, Comer, who is 63 years of age, having drawn a knife and threatened Seed at Dadeville, according to reports. Gov. O'Neal, accused of being a "wet" is against Comer, a "dry."

Close contests were expected today in the congressional districts of Representatives Henry D. Clayton, chairman of the national House judiciary committee, in charge of some of the administrations' anti-trust bills; Representative John L. Barnett, of Gadsden, Representative E. L. Blackmon, of Anniston; Representatives S. Hubert Dent, of Montgomery, and Representative George Taylor, of Demopolis. Representative J. Thomas Heflin, of Lafayette is without opposition, although some fight is being made upon Heflin because of his pronounced opposition, although some fight is being made upon Heflin because of his pronounced opposition to woman suffrage. Representative Richardson, of Huntsville is not a candidate for re-election.

Representative Clayton's district is a storm center. The vote is expected to be extremely close. His opponent is Henry S. Steagall, of Ozark, a young attorney, who entered the race after Clayton had announced that he would be a candidate for Senator. When Clayton retired to give Underwood a free field against Hobson as suggested in a letter to Clayton from President Wilson, Steagall refused to do likewise and has waged a vigorous and thorough campaign.

Denison and Severin Will be Headquarters for G. A. R. Encampment, May 6 to 8

CONVENTION ON ROOF GARDEN

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, Ind., April 6.—Headquarters for the G. A. R. encampment May 6-7-8 will be at the Denison and Severin hotels, according to the decision reached today by the hotels committee.

The G. A. R., the Woman's Relief Corps and the Ladies of the G. A. R. will go to the Denison, where they will be given the use of the various parlors and meeting rooms of the hotel. The Denison was chosen because of its proximity to Tomlinson hall where the G. A. R. sessions will be held and because of the good treatment received there last year.

The Sons of Veterans and the Ladies Auxiliary to the Sons of Veterans will go to the Severin. The roof garden and the top floor hall will be used for the convention sessions.

CHAPTER II.

MRS. REYNOLDS came back soon and reported the house quiet and in order.

"But I found Peter shut up in one of the third floor rooms," he said. "Did you put him there?"

I had not said so, but as the dog went everywhere and the door might have blown shut we did not attach much importance to that at the time.

Well, the stiff was gone, and there was no use worrying about it until morning. I went back to the sofa to keep warm, but I left my candle lighted and my door open. I did not sleep. The dead cat was on my mind, and as if it were not bad enough to have it washed in at my feet about 4 in the morning Peter, prowling uneasily, discovered it and brought it in and put it on my couch, wet and stiff, poor little thing!

I looked at the clock. It was a quarter after 4, and except for the occasional crunch of one ice cake hitting another in the yard, everything was quiet. And then I heard the stealthy sound of oars in the lower hall.

I am not a brave woman. I lay there, hoping Mr. Reynolds would hear and open his door. But he was sleeping soundly. Peter snarled and ran out into the hall, and the next moment I heard Mr. Ladley speaking. "Down, Peter," he said. "Down. Go and lie down."

I took my candle and went out into the hall. Mr. Ladley was stooping over the boat, trying to tie it to the staircase. The rope was short, having been cut, and he was having trouble. Perhaps it was the candle light, but he looked ghost white and haggard.

"I borrowed your boat, Mrs. Pitman," he said, civilly enough. "Mrs. Ladley was not well, and I—I went to the drug store."

"You've been more than two hours going to the drug store," I said.

He muttered something about not finding any open at first and went into

"I borrowed your boat, Mrs. Pitman," his room. He closed and locked the door behind him and, although Peter whined and scratched, he did not let him in.

He looked so agitated that I thought I had been harsh and perhaps she was really ill. I knocked at the door and asked if I could do anything. But he only called "No!" curtly through the door and asked me to take that infernal dog away.

I went back to bed and tried to sleep, for the water had dropped an inch or so on the stairs, and I knew the danger was over. Peter came, shivering, at dawn and got on to the sofa with me. I put an end of the quilt over him, and he stopped shivering after a time and went to sleep.

The dog was company. I lay there, wide awake, thinking about Mr. Pitman's death, and how I had come by degrees to be keeping a cheap boarding house in the flood district and to having to take impudence from everybody who chose to rent a room from me and to being called a she devil. From that I got to thinking again about the Ladleys and how she had said he was a fend and to doubting about his having gone out for medicine for her. I dozed off again at daylight, and being worn out I slept heavily.

At 7 o'clock Mr. Reynolds came to the door, dressed for the store. He was a tall man of about fifty, neat and orderly in his habits, and he always remembered that I had seen better days and treated me as a lady.

"Never mind about breakfast for me

this morning, Mrs. Pitman," he said. "I'll get a cup of coffee at the other end of the bridge. I'll take the boat and send it back with Terry."

He turned and went along the hall and down to the boat. I heard him push off from the stairs with an oar and row out into the street. Peter followed him to the stairs.

He went back and slammed his door and I made his coffee. I steeped a cup of tea for Mrs. Ladley at the same time. He opened the door just wide enough for the tray and took it without so much as a "thank you." He had a cigarette in his mouth as usual and I could see a fire in the grate and smell something like scorching cloth.

"I hope Mrs. Ladley is better," I said, getting my foot in the crack of the door so he could not quite close it. It smelled to me as if he had accidentally set fire to something with his cigarette and I tried to see into the room.

"What about Mrs. Ladley?" he snapped.

"You said she was ill last night."

"Oh, yes! Well, she wasn't very sick. She's better."

"Shall I bring her some tea?"

"Take your foot away!" he ordered. "No. She doesn't want tea. She's not here."

"Not here?"

"Good heavens!" he snarled. "Is her going away anything to make such a fuss about? The Lord knows I'd be glad to get out of this infernal pig wallow myself."

"If you mean my house"—I began.

But he had pulled himself together and was more polite when he answered: "I mean the neighborhood. Your house is all that could be desired for the money. If we do not have linen sheets and double cream we are paying muslin and milk prices."

Either my nose was growing accustomed to the odor or it was dying away. I took my foot away from the door. "When did Mrs. Ladley leave?" I asked.

"This morning, very early. I rowed her to Federal street."

"You couldn't have had much sleep," I said dryly, for he looked horrible. There were lines around his eyes, which were red, and his lips looked dry and cracked.

"She's not in the piece this week at the theater," he said, licking his lips and looking past me, not at me. "She'll be back by Saturday."

I did not believe him. I do not think he imagined that I did. He shut the door in my face, and it caught poor Peter by the nose. The dog ran off howling, but although Mr. Ladley had been as fond of the animal as it was in his nature to be fond of anything, he paid no attention. As I started down the hall after him I saw what Peter had been carrying—a slipper of Mrs. Ladley's. It was soaked with water. Evidently Peter had found it floating at the foot of the stairs.

Although the idea of murder had not entered my head at that time, the slipper gave me a turn. I picked it up and looked at it, a black one with a beaded toe, short in the vamp and high-heeled, the sort most actresses wear. Then I went back and knocked at the door of the front room again.

"What the devil do you want now?" he called from beyond the door.

"Here's a slipper of Mrs. Ladley's," I said. "Peter found it floating in the lower hall."

He opened the door wide and let me in. The room was in tolerable order, much better than when Mrs. Ladley was about. He looked at the slipper, but he did not touch it. "I don't think that is hers," he said.

"I've seen her wear it a hundred times."

"Well, she'll never wear it again." And then, seeing me stare, he added: "It's ruined with the water. Throw it out. And, by the way, I'm sorry, but I set fire to one of the pillow slips; dropped asleep, and my cigarette did the rest. Just put it on the bill."

He pointed to the bed. One of the pillows had no slip, and the ticking cover had a scorch or two on it. I went over and looked at it.

"The pillow will have to be paid for; too, Mr. Ladley," I said. "And there's a sign nailed on the door that forbids smoking in bed. If you are going to set fire to things I shall have to charge extra."

"Really!" he jeered, looking at me with his cold, fishy eyes. "Is there any sign on the door saying that boarders are charged extra for seven feet of filthy river in the bedrooms?"

I was never a match for him, and I make it a principle never to bandy words with my boarders. I took the pillow and the slipper and went out. The telephone was ringing on the stair landing. It was the theater, asking for Miss Brice.

"She has gone away," I said.

"What do you mean? Moved away?"

"Gone for a few days' vacation," I replied. "She isn't playing this week, is she?"

"Can you find out where Miss Brice has gone?"

"I'll see."

I went to Ladley's door and knocked. Mr. Ladley answered from just beyond.

"The theater is asking where Mrs. Ladley is."

"Tell them I don't know," he snarled, and shut the door. I took his message to the telephone.

Whoever it was swore and hung up the receiver.

All the morning I was uneasy—I hardly knew why. Peter felt it as I did. There was no sound from the Ladleys' room, and the house was quiet, except for the lapping water on the stairs and the police patrol going back and forth.

At 11 o'clock a boy in the neighborhood, paddling on a raft, fell into the water and was drowned. I watched the police boat go past, carrying his little cold body, and after that I was good for nothing. I went and sat with Peter on the stairs. The dog's conduct had been strange all morning. He had sat just above the water, looking at it and whimpering. Perhaps he was expecting another kitten or—

It is hard to say how ideas first enter one's mind. But the notion that Mr. Ladley had killed his wife and thrown her body into the water came to me as I sat there. All at once I seemed to see it all—the quarreling the day before, the night trip in the boat, the water soaked slipper, his haggard face that morning—even the way the spauil sat and stared at the flood.

Terry brought the boat back at half past 11, towing it behind another.

"Well," I said from the stairs. "I hope you've had a pleasant morning."

"What doing?" he asked, not looking at me.

"Rowing about the streets. You've had that boat for hours."

He tied it up without a word to me, but he spoke to the dog. "Good morning, Peter," he said. "It's nice weather for fishes, isn't it?"

He picked out a bit of floating wood from the water, and showing it to the dog, flung it into the parlor. Peter went after it with a splash. He was pretty fat, and when he came back I heard him wheezing. But what he brought back was not the stick of wood. It was the knife I use for cutting bread. It had been on a shelf in the room where I had slept the night before, and now Peter brought it out of the flood where its wooden handle had kept it afloat. The blade was broken off short.

It is not unusual to find one's household goods floating around during flood time. More than once I've lost a chair or two and seen it after the water had gone down, new scrubbed and painted, in Molly Maguire's kitchen next door. And perhaps now and then a bit of luck would come to me—a dog kennel or a chicken house, or a kitchen table, or even, as happened once, a mouth old baby in a wooden cradle, that lodged against my back fence and had come forty miles, as it turned out, with no worse mishap than a cold in its head.

But the knife was different. I had put it on the mantel over the stove I was using upstairs the night before and hadn't touched it since. As I sat staring at it, Terry took it from Peter and handed it to me.

"Better give me a penny, Mrs. Pitman," he said in his impudent Irish way. "I hate to give you a knife. It may cut our friendship."

I reached over to hit him a clout on the head, but I did not. The sunlight was coming in through the window at the top of the stairs, and shining on the rope that was tied to the banister. The end of the rope was covered with stains, bright with a glint of red in them.

I got up shivering. "You can get the meat at the butcher's, Terry," I said, "and come back for me in half an hour." Then I turned and went upstairs, weak in the knees, to put on my hat and coat. I had made up my mind that there had been murder done.

I looked at my clock as I went downstairs. It was just 12:30. I thought of telephoning for Mr. Reynolds to meet me, but it was his lunch hour, and besides, I was afraid to telephone from the house while Mr. Ladley was in it.

Peter had been whining again. When I came down the stairs he had stopped whimpering and was wagging his tail. A strange boat had put into the hallway and was coming back.

"Now, old boy!" somebody was saying from the boat. "Steady, old chap! I've got something for you!"

A little man, elderly and alert, was standing up in the boat, poling it along with an oar. Peter gave vent to joyful yelps. The elderly gentleman brought his boat to a stop at the foot of the stairs and, reaching down into a tub at his feet, held up a large piece of raw liver. Peter almost went crazy, and I remember suddenly that

I had forgotten to feed the poor beast for more than a day.

"Would you like it?" asked the gentleman. Peter sat up, as he had been taught to do, and barked. The gentleman reached down again, got a wooden platter from a stack of them at his feet and, placing the liver on it, put it on the step. The whole thing was so neat and businesslike that I could only gaze.

"That's a well trained dog, madam," said the elderly gentleman, beaming at Peter over his glasses. "You should not have neglected him."

"The flood put him out of my mind," I explained, humbly enough, for I was ashamed.

"Exactly. Do you know how many starving dogs and cats I have found this morning?" He took a notebook out of his pocket and glanced at it. "Forty-eight! Forty-eight, madam! And ninety-three cats! I have found them marooned in trees, clinging to fences, floating on barrels, and I have found them in comfortable houses where there was no excuse for their neglect. Well, I must be moving on. I have the report of a cat with a new litter in the loft of a stable near here."

He wiped his hands carefully on a fresh paper napkin, of which also a heap rested on one of the seats of the boat, and picked up an oar, smiling benevolently at Peter. Then suddenly he bent over and looked at the stained rope end tied to the stair rail.

"What's that?" he said.

"That's what I'm going to find out," I replied. I glanced up at the Ladleys' door, but it was closed.

The little man dropped his oar and, fumbling in his pockets, pulled out a small magnifying glass. He bent over, holding to the rail, and inspected the stains with the glass. I had taken a fancy to him at once, and in spite of my excitement I had to smile a little.

"Humph!" he said and looked up at me; "that's blood! Why did you cut the boat loose?"

"I didn't," I said. "If that is blood I want to know how it got there. That was a new rope last night." I glanced at the Ladleys' door again, and he followed my eyes.

"I wonder," he said, raising his voice a little, "if I come into your kitchen if you will allow me to fry a little of that liver. There's a wretched Maltese in a tree at the corner of Fourth street that won't touch it raw."

I saw that he wanted to talk to me, so I turned around and led the way to the temporary kitchen I had made.

"Now," he said briskly when he had closed the door, "there's something wrong here. Perhaps if you will tell me I can help. If I can't it will do you good to talk about it. My name's Holcombe, retired merchant. Apply to First National bank for references."

"I'm not sure there is anything wrong," I began. "I guess I'm only nervous and thinking little things are big ones. There's nothing to tell."

"Nonsense. I come down the street in my boat. A white faced gentleman, with a cigarette, looks out from a window when I stop at the door and ducks back when I glance up. I come in and find a pet dog, obviously overfed at ordinary times, whining with hunger on the stairs. As I prepare to feed him a pale woman comes down, trying to put a tight hand glove on her left hand and with her jacket wrong side out. What am I to think?"

I started and looked at my coat. He was right. And when as I tried to take it off he helped me and even patted me on the shoulder—what with his kindness and the long morning alone, worrying, and the sleepless night, I began to cry. He had a clean handkerchief in my hand before I had time to think of one.

"It isn't a husband," I sniffled.

"Tell me about it," he said. There was something so kindly in his face and it was so long since I had had a bit of human sympathy that I almost broke down again.

MOTHER TELLS

How Her Little Girl Was Restored to Health.

Mrs. Chas. Schrieffer of 139 Him-rob St., Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "My little girl was frail, sickly and all run down after having had the grippe. I was advised to give her Vinol and after the first bottle noticed an improvement. She has taken four bottles and has picked up rapidly, having gained six pounds in three weeks."

The reason Vinol builds up weak ailing children so quickly is because it contains in a delicious combination the two most world famed tonics — i. e., the strength creating, body building elements of cod liver oil, with all the useless grease eliminated, and tonic iron for the blood added. If you have a weak, puny, ailing child try Vinol on our offer to return your money if it fails to benefit your little one. F. B. Johnson & Co. Druggists, Rushville, Indiana.

P. S. If you have Eezema try our Saxo Salve. We guarantee it. (Advertisement.)

Pianos and Player Pianos

Housecleaning time has arrived and as soon as this is done, then you will want that new piano or player piano. A little auto trip will take you to Newcastle where you will find one of the largest and best equipped piano factories in the country. There you can see 27 different styles and as many different prices. I sell direct from the factory and can save you $100. A demonstration can be had at Poe's jewelry store at any time.

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

Sold by Druggists. Price 75c per bottle. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

HE IS UNDER QUARANTINE

Pitcher Frank Romine is Suffering From Smallpox.

Frank Romine, who pitched for the Newcastle team last season, and who is signed to pitch for the Indianapolis Reserves this year, is under quarantine in his home at Pennville, near Portland, with an attack of smallpox. He is said to have the disease in a mild form. Romine will probably not be able to play baseball for at least three weeks and the Reserves will start the season with another pitcher. Romine has a strong constitution and is not expected to suffer any bad effects from the attack.

TRAINS DETOURED BY WAY OF CHICAGO

Wreck Crew Engaged Today Clearing up Debris Caused by Wreck of Wabash Train Near Attica.

3 DEAD; OVER 40 INJURED

(By United Press.)

Attica, Ind., April 6.—All St. Louis trains were detoured by way of Chicago today and will continue that way for a week while workmen clear away the wreck of the Continental Limited on the Wabash railroad which ran through the Wabash river bridge near here yesterday, killing three and injuring over forty.

The dead are: J. A. Thomas, express agent, Huntington, Ind.; Tim Hull, engineer, Peru, Ind.; Jacob Miller, fireman, Peru, Ind. It is not thought any of the injured will die.

A heavy refrigerator car jumped the track at the east end of the bridge, throwing the span near the east abutment out of line and bending one of the vertical supports about two feet. The wrecking crew had just succeeded in clearing this wreck.

Road Superintendent Whitehead examined the bridge and, concluding that it was safe, so reported to the dispatcher. The Continental Limited started across the bridge slowly. As the big engine started across the last span, the bridge weakened and began to crumble at the first pier. Two spans fell and plunged the engine and several cars into the river.

GETS NO RESPONSE FROM PRESIDENT

Criticism of Federal Reserve Districts Under New Currency Law is Being Made.

OUT OF NAVY CONTROVERSY

(By United Press.)

Washington, April 6.—Adverse criticism of the make-up of the federal reserve districts under the currency law created by Secretaries McAdoo and Houston is meeting with no response from President Wilson. The executive said today he believed the selections were honestly made; that they were decided on after a complete investigation of the actual trade conditions and capitalization and exchange methods of banks in each district. The President indicated that he believed the selection would not be upset by the federal reserve board when it is named.

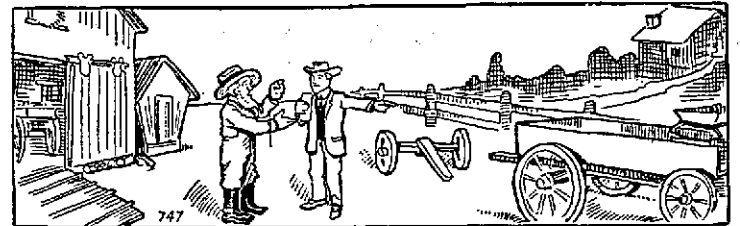

Reports of impending recognition of Mexican Rebels are premature. The President said today that he had no request of this character from General Carranza. He further made it plain that circumstances alone will determine what he shall take in the recognition of any government in Mexico.

President Wilson today refused to be drawn into the controversy which has arisen through the issuance of an order through Secretary Daniels making the navy "dry." He took the position that it is a departmental matter entirely.

BUICK---1914

There are some motor cars that sell for less money than Buicks. But they cost more.

The B-36 roadster is the peppiest four cylinder car you ever drove, and it has all the style that makes the people you pass take that second look. The B-37 on the same chassis has caused a bigger sensation than any other four cylinder car brought out by any concern in the past few years.

We guarantee that the Buick six-cylinder car with five passengers will tour over ordinary roads on not to exceed one gallon of gasoline consumption to every fifteen miles traveled, and frequent actual road tests have assured us that it is possible to get as high as twenty miles per gallon.
